1980	Brazil	Furnas Centrais Eletricas S.A.	Financing	Itaipu Hydroelectric Dam – sale of electrical transmission equipment, assembly of six shunt reactors	Canadian General Electric Company Ltd., Dominion Engineering Company Ltd.	US$3,500,000		Project on the Parana River, Brazil-Paraguay border. Itaipu is the largest hydro dam in the world. Construction flooded almost 1,500 square kilometers of tropical forest and farmland; drowned Sete Quedas, one of South America's most impressive natural cataracts; and displaced 40,000 people, including the Ava-Guarani Indians, mostly without proper compensation. The dam also destroyed the habitat of 252 species of birds and 70 known species of other animals.	Ibid.; June 21, 1983, written correspondence from D.G. Carmichael, Communications Officer at EDC, to Probe International.; Odious Debts by Patricia Adams, Earthscan, London, 1991; Probe International files; “Upper Parana Rivers and Streams,” World Wildlife Fund.
